

ABSTRACT

An operating system preferably for use with a digital signal processing target is disclosed which minimizes time and space requirements on the target DSP chip. The operating system is also configured in accordance with parameters entered by a user regarding the application being developed.

0904536 043004
F00E40" 9E954B60